

A microscopic view of numerous red blood cells, which are biconcave discs, filling the frame. The cells are a deep red color and are shown in various orientations and depths of focus, creating a sense of a dense population of cells. The background is a darker, slightly blurred red, making the individual cells stand out.

Blood or blood products MUST
NOT be placed in this fridge